Teacher Programs

Drawing on Victoria's expertise in education innovation, the Department of Education & Training offers both structured and customised training programs for education administrators and managers, policy makers and education planning professionals as well as specialist curriculum teachers.

The Department of Education & Training Professional Development Program - Specific training for teachers

Pre-structured and accredited training for teachers is also available. The Department's Professional Development Program offers a unique benefit to schools and teachers. It equips teachers with state-of-the-art knowledge, skills and training.

The increasing use of technology, the right of every child to an education, a change in focus from inputs to outcomes and the need for children to learn to manage rather than simply acquire information means that there is an urgent need in every school to up-grade teachers' skills, knowledge and qualifications.

The Department's Professional Development Program is specifically designed for practicing teachers, consists of discrete modules and can be delivered after school hours or adjacent to vacation time. Individual schools, groups of schools or other educational institutions can choose from an established suite of modules or be involved in developing a custom-designed program.

Customised Training Programs

Drawing on Victoria's vast education expertise, the Department is able to design and deliver professional training services for education systems overseas. Customised training programs can be prepared in response to specific organisational needs and educational objectives.
