What Natasha has achieved

Natasha has worked effectively as a member of a small team to produce a report that analyses Cathy Freeman's sporting experience, and the factors that influenced her success and community work, particularly with young people. Natasha applied the knowledge gained from this activity to undertake research via Career Voyager and The Job Guide into a career pathway in psychology. She also organised a Work Experience position in the psychology department of the local hospital. Natasha produced a well researched and informative presentation using PowerPoint detailing a range of ways into a Psychology career, together with pathways into other roles. She very confidently presented this slide show to the rest of the class. Natasha has demonstrated a significant improvement in her time management and organisational skills during this unit despite having many other tasks to complete.

Areas for improvement/future learning

Natasha needs to plan her research steps carefully to ensure she speedily and accurately finds information. To avoid overlooking important information in her assignments, Natasha needs to clarify the requirements of a task before starting it. Natasha should continue to develop her presentation skills, including the use of PowerPoint to better cater for a range of audiences.

The school will do the following to support Natasha in her learning

The school will ensure that Natasha completes some simple research activities with very short timelines. Natasha will be asked to explain tasks in her own words before she commences them. Natasha will be encouraged to adapt one PowerPoint presentation for a range of different audiences, for example Year 9 students, parents, other classes within the school.

What you can do at home to help Natasha's progress

Encourage Natasha to discuss more broadly her career aspirations, options and possible ways of achieving them. Encourage Natasha to rehearse presentations to family members before the school event.
