

Engaging Young Australians with Asia through the Victorian Essential Learning Standards

The Victorian studies of Asia program works with The Asia Education Foundation (<http://www.asiaeducation.edu.au.htm>), government and non-government school sectors, teacher education institutions and professional and parent associations to promote and support the studies of Asia across the curriculum in all Victorian schools.

As we move further into the 21st century the importance of providing students with the knowledge, skills and understandings to enable them to live, learn and work in a global world is becoming increasingly important.

The National Statement for Engaging Young Australians with Asia in Australian Schools

(http://www.asiaeducation.edu.au/public\_html/aeef\_statement.htm)

provides educators with a valuable framework to use in planning the priorities and strategies for supporting schools in engaging students with Asia. The statement identifies the broad knowledge, understanding, values and skills required to engage with Asia.

Studies of Asia and VELs

The Victorian Essential Learning Standards (VELs) describe what is essential for Victorian students to achieve from Prep to Year 10. The VELs provide a whole school curriculum planning framework that sets out learning standards for schools to use to plan their teaching and learning programs.

Studies of Asia is supported through the VELs Domains of English, Humanities (History, Geography and Economics), The Arts, LOTE and Civics and Citizenship.

The table on the following page provides a summary outline of the VELs standards that support studies of Asia.

Resources to support development of curriculum programs – Scope and Sequence

The Asia Scope and Sequence for English

draws on texts of Asia and Australia. These include imaginative texts, information texts and argument texts. This resource provides teachers with information on exemplary resources available across the years of schooling.

Units of work to support ASSE have been published.

The Asia Scope and Sequence for Studies of Society and Environment (Humanities)

The ASSSSE has been developed to align with learning outcomes described in the National Statement for Engaging Young Australians with Asia in Australian Schools. This resource provides teachers with information on exemplary resources available across the years of schooling. Units of work to support ASSSSE have been published.

The Asia Scope and Sequence for The Arts

The ASSA provides advice and support to teachers of The Arts in order to facilitate their efforts to engage young people with Asia.

Copies of resources for English, SOSE and The Arts are available for download as pdf files at http://www.asiaeducation.edu.au/public\_html/scope\_sequence.htm.

VELS Domain webpages

Curriculum that is offered to students from Prep to Year 10 is accompanied by a range of teaching and learning aids to ensure teachers and students maximise the opportunity for education. Where appropriate, studies of Asia resources will be linked to the appropriate Domain page which can be accessed through
