THE little voices of the Lalor Primary School choir continue to leave their “inspirational” mark on the audiences it performs to.

The choir, made up of students from grades 3 to 5, is fine tuning its skills in preparation for one of its biggest performances to date, the Victorian State Schools Spectacular, in September. Choir teacher Nerida Newell said the choir of 60 blew audiences away with their voices at the Diamond Valley Choral Festival and the School of Rock Festival last month.

Ms Newell said the choir gives as much joy to its audiences as it gets in return.

“We are invited to a lot of festivals and we have so much fun which people can see,” she said.

“This is more the kids’ self-confidence and self-esteem.

“Since we started this I have seen their confidence grow through the roof. It’s been fantastic.”

Ms Newell said the choir’s popularity came from its ability to leave the audience saying wow.
