Helping your child to shine

It’s report time in Victorian government schools and all Prep to Year 10 students should receive their Semester 2 report card this month.

What’s in a report card?
In recent years, Victorian government schools have returned to a plain English approach to school reports – with ratings from A–E which have the same meaning no matter which government school your child attends.

The report cards include:
• A–E ratings of student achievement in all learning areas
• An indication of your child’s progress over the previous 12 months
• A plan for how your school will support your child’s learning
• Advice on how you can support your child
• Comments from your child about their report.

What do A–E rankings mean?
• A indicates your child is well above the standard expected for their year level
• B indicates your child is above the standard expected for their year level
• C indicates your child is at the standard expected
• D indicates your child is below the standard expected
• E indicates your child is well below the standard expected

Note: some schools choose not to issue an A–E rating for Prep students.
